Miss Rosalte Butter's Effort to Show that Mrs. Stewart's Recorded Will Was Not her Last Testament, and that she Was Unduly Influenced in Disposing of her Estate—A Photograph in Evidence.

Miss Rosalie Butler's contest to break the will of Cornelia M. Stewart, widow of the mil-Bonaire merchant, was begun yesterday before Burrogate Ransom. It will be continued next teek, and one of the lawyers said yesterday that now that the fight has actually been taken up in court it will be months and years before It gets out of court. There were signs yesterday that lots of news about the Stewart estate and Judge Hilton and the Butlers and the Clinches and all the other Stewart and Hilton foes and friends will come out during the trial. The only things done yesterday were the entering in full of the appearances of the counel, the statement of the proponent's case, and the examination in part of one witness. The gathering of the lawyers was the most imposing thing of the day. First was Joseph H. Choate for the contestant, Miss Butler. Assoclated with him was Treadwell Cleveland. For Judge Hitton individually and as executor and trustee appeared ex-Attorney-General

MRS. STEWART AT THE AGE OF 82. Lealle W. Russell, For Charles J. Clinch as executor and individually came Horace Rusell. For both Judge Hilton and Mr. Clinch there were listed Roscoe Conkling, Elihu Root, and ex-Surrogate Daniel G. Rollins, For the others these appearances were noted: For the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Joseph W. Gilbert; for Sarah N. Smith, Bessie S. White, Ella B. Smith, Kate A. Wetherill, and provisionally for Louise N. Osborn, Mesers, Martin & Smith; for Annie C. Clinch, Julia Clinch, Lillian L. Swan, Helen C. Butler, Maxwell E. Butler, and Virginia Butler, Messrs, Shipman Barlow, Laroque & Choate : for James C. Smith.

Barlow, Larcoque & Choate: for James C. Smith, Mr. Smith himself; for Lawrence S. Butler and Charles S. Butler, George M. Pinney, Jr., as special guardian; for Prescott Hall Butler individually, Thomas T. Sherman, Henry Hilton and his sons Albert and Henry G, were in court with leather baga crammed with documents. Sitting near them were Horace C. Sylvester and Edwin J. Denning, the partners with Henry C. Hilton in the wholesale and retail firms succeeding A. T. Stewart & Co. Rosalie Butler, the petitioner for the revocation of the will, was not on hand, but her father, with his gray side whiskers, and her brother, with his gray side whiskers, and her brother, with his Pompadour hair, sat near Mr. Choate. Ex-Senator Conkling was about the last lawyer to get there. He had been delayed by the storm, and his face was as red as his necktle.

layed by the storm, and his face was as red as his necktle.

When the Surrogate rapped for the beginning of the fight, a smooth-faced young man with a little moustache rose near the Surrogate's desk and said he didn't know whether he had any right to say what he was about to say, but he was going to take the risk. "I am only a clerk," he began diffidently, "and I am the only man in our law office who has turned up in the last two days. I happened to look at the diary this morning and saw that Mr. Michael W. Devine, the head of our firm, was connected with this case. I don't know tor whom he appears, and I don't know exactly what to say or ask for, but Mr. Devine lives at Elizabeth. M. J., and he can't get to New York. I live there, too, and I can't get out of New York."

All the other lawyers and Surrogate Ransom laughed at the way the bashful clerk put the story of his and Mr. Devine's misfortunes, and then the clerk said: "Well, this is my maiden effort." Then they laughed again, and, he laughed, too, and they rewarded Mr. Devine's faithful representative by saying that the interests of his cilent. Mrs. Sarah Smith, would be protected pending the raising of the snow blockade and the return of Mr. Devine from Ex-Attorney-General Russell stated the case for the proponents of the will. He said that they prosented for confirmation the last will and testament of Cornella M, Stewart. If all the papers and documents in the case were brought to court it would take two or three rooms of the Court House to hold them, inasmuch as they are several hundred tons in weight. He went back to the Stewarts, and told of the great merchant's death on April 10, 1876, and of his wile's death Oct. 25, 1886. Her fortune came altogether from her husband. Her executors presented five instruments, the will and four codicils, for probate. With the sommon consent and assent of all, they were admitted to probate, and no proceedings were begun to overturn them until eleven months after the probate and one month before the expiration of the statutory limit within which action must be taken. One person then asked or the revocation. Then Judge Russell said hat under the will it would be seen that Mrs. Stewart made a distinction between full-blood and half-blood relatives. He took up the petition of his Butler, which asks for the revocation of the will on the ground that it is not the last will of Mrs. Stewart, and that it and the todicils attached were obtained and the signames blace! thereto through "fraud and untue influence and circumvention practised against and upon Cornella M. Stewart by Henry Hitton." Noxt he tackled the answer fled in this suit by Rosalle's brother. Prescot thal Butler, and declared that this illuminated his whole object of the brother and sister in their legal actions.

What they want, he said, "Is that this will sut out, and this paragraph of the will sut out, and this paragraph of the will not on provide they think are wrong."

The first witness was Henry H. Rice, a sort of confidential worker on the legal slide of the Stewart and Hilton properties since 1865. He said that he had been and is still the attorney for the collection of the mercanile debts of A. T. Stewart & Co. and the successors of that firm. Mrs. Stewart wi roundings all that, if living, I could desire or wish for.

Witness, Herry E. Davies.

The witness swore that he had never heard any word from Mrs. Stewart in reference to any will except that which he saw signed. Mr. Choate showed him the will of Mr. Stewart, who died April 10, by which Judge Hilton was authorized to wind up Stewart's husiness and was rewarded with $1,000,000 therefor. He showed the witness also the deed by which on April 14, or four days after Stewart's death, Mrs. Stewart transferred all of Stewart's business to Henry Hilton for $1,000,000, Mr. Choate then asked Mr. Hice if he didn't know that the million which the deed recites Mr. Hilton to have raid Mrs. Stewart was the million he had received from the will of Mr. Stewart. The witness could not tell exactly. A paper giving Judge Hilton power of attorney for Mrs. Stewart in overy way, dated April 14, 1876, was shown to Mr. Rice and a series of questions started to find out Mr. Rice's relations to Judge Hilton with the object apparently of showing that Mr. Rice was prejudiced in the Judge's favor. Mr. Rice was prejudiced in the Judge's favor. Mr. Rice and of Stewarts. Hilton & Co. to look after the old accounts of A. T. Stewart & Co. and the successor firms. They paid him his salary. When he did work personally for Judge Hilton he was paid for it. He swore that he had not been engaged in preparing testimony for the case in any way, shape, or manner.

A picture of Mrs. Stewart, which was taken in the year of her death, was introduced as evidence by the consent of both parties. Mrs. Stewart was then 82 years old. Witness, HENRY E. DAVISS.

THE MAYOR'S CONFERENCE.

Bills of Local Interest that were Approved and Disapproved, The Mayor's conference yesterday consisted of the Mayor, Corporation Counsel Beek-man, the President of the Board of Aldermen, Comptroller Myers, Commissioner Newton, and Excise Commissioner Andrews. The conference approved a bill providing for the ex-penditure of $750,000 for the distribution of water: an act requiring the deposit of money by parties obtaining permits to open the streets to cover the expense of repaving the streets an act to compel the holders of land under water to pave the streets running through their lands; an act providing for a new public bath between Fifty-ninth and Seventy-ninth streets, East River; an act providing for a new evening high school somewhere east of Third avenue and north of Fifty-seventh street, and an act permitting the construction of railways through the transverse roads of Central Park, and an act authorizing the expenditure of $3,000,000 for renairing the expenditure of Estimate. The conterence disapproved the Vedder bill to increase the saiaries in the Police Department; the bill transverring the Park police to the regular police force; the bill striking out the limit of $1,000 to police pensions; the bill requiring persons obtaining permits for blasting to give bond; the bill providing for a new Commissioner to establish municipal lodging houses; the bill requiring that the Mayor shall hereafter appoint as members of the Board of Education one from each ward; the bill giving part of the excise money to the police pension fund, and the bill to establish a driveway in Central Park.

The Mayor's rapid transit bill was not considered. The bill to establish a market in the Nineteenth ward was laid over. and north of Fifty-seventh street, and an act

THE ALDERMEN AGAINST THE MAYOR.

They Will Oppose Certain Bills that He Favors in Order to Assert Themselves. The Aldermen started yesterday a flat opposition to Mayor Hewitt and his conference of the heads of departments with reference to the bills pending in the Legislature affecting the city of New York. They appointed a committee consisting of President Forster, Alder men Dowling, Divver, Fitzsimmons, and Conkling to consider such bills, and to go to Albany when required and present the Aldermen's views. Alderman Dowling led off with the first business for the committee to do by directing the committee to oppose the Mayor's rapid transit bill; the bill requiring Police Justices to be lawyers; the bill authorizing the giving of quarters in a public building to the Volunteer Firemen's Association, and the bill authorizing the Commissioner of Public Works to repays streets without the consent of the Aldermen. Alderman Dowling took occasion to say that there was a tendency to deprive the Aldermen of all power and to ignore their representative capacity. He believed that if the bills approved by the Mayor's Cabinet should be passed the Aldermen might as well adjourn. He warned the people that the proposed placing of power in the heads of departments instead of the elective officers might lead to the renewal of the scenes of 1870 and 1871.

The Board passed, by a vote of 17 to 1, the motion to instruct the committee to oppose the bills named. The spectacle will therefore be presented at Albany of various branches of the city Government arrayed against each other. The Aldermen have pitted themselves against the Mayor. transit bill; the bill requiring Police Justices t

ALDERMEN, MAYOR, AND FLAGS.

Irish Fing Over the City Hail, The Aldermen had eighteen members out of twenty-five present yesterday, lacking one of a sufficient number to pass things over the Mayor's veto. It was a sort of a blizzard meeting. The Board accepted the invitation of the Convention of Irish Societies to participate in the celebration of St. Patrick's Day at Jones's Wood. Alderman Divver got a resolution passed without objection, requesting the Mayor to cause the national. State, and municipa flags, and the Irish national flag, to be raised flags, and the Irish national flag, to be raised on the City Hall flag staffs on the natal day of Ireland's patron. St. Patrick. Of course the Aldermen know of the Mayor's views and expressed declaration that while he is Mayor no loreign flags shall float from the City Hall. The Mayor has ten days under the law to express his objections, so that the Aldermen are too late to pass the resolution over his veto in time to get the flags up on St. Patrick's Day. Mayor Hewitt was asked what course he would take on the subject. He said, "Wait until Saturday." He added, jocularly: "If I decide to run for President on my own nomination. I may put the flags up to catch the Irish yote."

The Board also passed a resolution requesting the Mayor to order the national flag at half mast on the day of the funeral of the late Emperor William. Alderman Fitzsimmons made the motion. Alderman Conkling secondel it because, as he said, the Emperor, as arbiter, decided in favor of this country in the San Juan boundary question in 1873.

When Mayor Hewitt's attention was directed to this he said: "I see no impropriety in that. In fact I am willing to order the American flag to float from the City Hall on any conceivable occasion. I am willing to put it up any time." on the City Hall flag staffs on the natal day of Objections to Charles G. Havens's Will. Objections were filed yesterday with Probate Clerk Beckett by D. P. Hunt of Marathon, Cortland county, N. Y., a nephew of the late Charles G. Havens, to the probate of the will of Mr. Havens. The will leaves the bulk of the Mr. Havens. The will leaves the bulk of the estate to the Havens Relief Fund Society for charitable purposes. The value of the estate is about $3,000,000. The trustees first named in the will were Charles B. Moors and Clifford A. Hand. The nephew alleges as objections to the will that the Havens Re ief Fund Society is not incorporated, and has no right to receive the bequest; that the will is not duly executed; that the testator was not of sound mind, and that he was unduly influenced.

Another Elective Office Wanted.

Alderman Dowling introduced a resolution which the Board eagerly passed yesterday requesting the Legislature to pass an act making the office of Corporation Counsel elective. Alderman Conkling opposed it vigorously, derman Conking opposed it vigorously, but Aldermen Fitzsimmons and Dowling denounced him as one who had no confidence in the people. They pointed to the late John E. Develin, Richard O'Gorman, Greene C. Bronson, and others as samples of the qualified men who have been elected by the people. Alderman Dowling declared that to refuse to make the office elective is an insult to the people.

Was Farmer Peck Elected in the Storm! Elections were held yesterday in the townships of Essex county, but it was utterly impossible to get returns from any point outside obside to get returns from any point outside of the city. A rumor from East Orange indi-cated that the effort to deleat the reelection of Farmer Peck to his twenty-sixth term in the Board of Freeholders was unsuccessful, and that the venerable and cunning politician "got there" as usual, although it was not the kind of a day that is supposed to be conducive to Re-publican victory.

The Aldermen adopted yesterday a resolution fixing April 6, at 1 P. M., at room 16, City Hall, as the time and place for hearing parties interested in the proposed substitution of elec-tric motors for houses on Fourth avenue.
